Market Update

Australian share market recorded its first monthly gain since January returning 3.6% for the month of April and 9.8% for the 12 months. The Australia market followed the lead from the US share market on news of trade deals.

Australia copped a 10% US tariff on our exports, however only 5% of Australian exports go to the US. The bigger threat to Australian exports comes from reduced exports to China and Asia.

10 out of 11 sectors in the S&P/ASX 200 posted gains, led by Communication Services, Information Technology and Consumer Discretionary, each rising by 6%. Energy was the only sector to report a loss.

China's manufacturing sector contracted in April, with the official PMI falling to 49.0, its lowest since December 2023, due to escalating U.S. tariffs and weakening export demand.

Trump placed eye-watering 145% tariff on China but for most other nations a 90-day pause on reciprocal tariffs, leaving a 10% universal tariff in place.

Global share markets plunged at the beginning of the month on worries about a full-blown trade war, The Trump Dump initially caused US shares to fall 17%, 16% globally and 10% in Australia. While gold surged to new highs.

The Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) left the Federal Funds Rate unchanged at the range of 4.25 – 4.50% at the March meeting and projected two rate cuts later this year.

The RBA left interest rates on hold at 4.10%, but is expected to engage in another rate cut of 0.25% in May. Australia's headline inflation (total inflation) remained steady in Q1 2025 at 2.4% annually, within the target band of 2 – 3%.

Most fixed income indices advanced as rates declined on weaker economic growth expectations. The Australian Government 0+ index was among the best performers, rising by 2% for the month, with the index's yield falling to 4%.

Gold maintained its winning streak in 2025, reaching historic peak of US$3,500 per ounce before experiencing volatility. A significant driver behind's gold's stellar performance has been the substantial decline in the US dollar.
